

THE CHAMPION COMMUNITY INITIATIVE

ORIGINS, PRINCIPLES AND POTENTIAL

Academy for Educational Development

Founded in 1961, the Academy for Educational Development (AED) is an independent, nonprofit organization committed to solving critical social problems and building the capacity of individuals, communities, and institutions to become more self-sufficient. AED works in all the major areas of human development, with a focus on improving education, health, and economic opportunities for the least advantaged in the United States and developing countries throughout the world.

The AED Global Health, Population, and Nutrition Group focuses on strengthening individual, community, institutional, and government actions to assure the health and well-being of vulnerable populations worldwide.

Written by: Renata Seidel

Designed by: Anne Quito

Photo Credits: Essential Services for Health in Ethiopia (ESHE Project)/Ethiopia: page 37; Peter Gottert: pages 1, 4, 8, 11, 26, 28, 34, 35; Agnès Guyon: pages 1, 36; Health Communication Project (HCP)/Ethiopia: pages 30, 38; LINKAGES Project/Madagascar: page 7; Wisam Qarqash, page 32; Victoria Quinn, pages 2, 3, 12, 14, 16, 18, 22, 24, and cover (top center).

Copies of this publication are available for downloading at www.globalhealthcommunication.org or by contacting:

Academy for Educational Development
Global Health, Population & Nutrition Group
1875 Connecticut Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20009
Tel: 202-884-8000
Fax: 202-884-8400
Email: ghcm@aed.org

ORIGINS, PRINCIPLES, AND POTENTIAL

2006

Academy for Educational Development

Acknowledgments

By definition, the success of any Champion Community Initiative depends on community members themselves: mothers and fathers and grandparents, children and young adults, health providers, extension workers, and school teachers. Local leaders and local institutions—from schools to health clinics to religious groups to nongovernmental organizations of various types—are also central to every achievement. Our profound thanks first to these countless individuals and groups for their dedication, their energy, and their influence upon these different "champion" models. Special thanks also go to Awa, a tireless midwife from Dori, Burkina Faso, and Rova, an enthusiastic community animator in Antsirabe, Madagascar. Awa and Rova provided the inspiration behind the Champion Community model. Peter Gottert, Academy for Educational Development, designed the first Champion Community model under the BASICS Project in Madagascar and has been involved in many iterations since, including the youth programs in Ethiopia, Madagascar, and Jordan. In addition, the following people deserve special mention for their contributions to the models mentioned in these pages:

MADAGASCAR

Mary Carnell, John Snow Inc. (for the BASICS and Jereo Salama Isika Projects)
Mark Rasmuson, Academy for Educational Development (for BASICS)
Nancy Harris, John Snow Inc. (for BASICS and Jereo Salama Isika)
Robertine Rahelimalala, John Snow Inc. (for BASICS and Jereo Salama Isika)
Alban Ratsivalaka, director of design firm Soimanga (for BASICS and Jereo Salama Isika)
Agnès Guyon, Academy for Educational Development (for LINKAGES)

Fano Randriamanantsoa, Academy for Educational Development (for the Health Communication Partnership)
Serge Raharison, Chemonics (for SantéNet)
Philippe LeMay, Chemonics (for SantéNet)
Wendy Benazera, USAID
Jocelyne Andriamiadana, USAID (for the Ankoay Program)
Benjamin Andriamitantsoa, USAID (for BASICS and Jereo Salama Isika)
Yvette Ribaira, John Snow, Inc. (for the Green Healthy Communities Project)

ETHIOPIA

Susan Anthony, USAID
Kokeb Kassa, Academy for Educational Development (for the Health Communication Partnership)
Hope Hempstone, Academy for Educational Development (for the Health Communication Partnership)

JORDAN (Youth Program)

Wisam Qarqash, Academy for Educational Development (for the Health Communication Partnership)
Dr. Soliman Farah, Johns Hopkins University, Center for Communication Planning (for the Health Communication Partnership)

We also wish to thank the Governments of Madagascar, Ethiopia, and Jordan, as well as the U.S. Agency for International Development and the David and Lucille Packard Foundation for supporting the design and implementation of the various Champion Community Initiatives. This publication was produced and funded by the Academy for Educational Development. Any errors are the author's alone.

CONTENTS

Introduction—Starting with the Community	2
The Inspiration	4
From “Side Activity” to Driving Force	8
Basic Principles	12
The Role of Children	16
Contribution to Health Impact in Madagascar	18
Expansion in Madagascar	22
Integrating Health and Education Goals	24
Focusing on the Challenges of Youth	28
Jordan—Health Transition Challenges	32
Moving Forward	36